Fluidic Energy

A Channeled Message on Consciousness, Evolution, and Cosmic Purpose (February 12, 1999)

OVERVIEW

This 30-minute channeled communication explores the fundamental nature of 'fluidic energy'—the flowing consciousness that underlies all existence. The beings explain why humans are 'museum pieces' from their perspective, discuss their scientific experimentation on Earth, and reveal their ultimate purpose: to re-unify the hardened, materialistic consciousness of humanity with the fluid, flowing energy of authentic spiritual awareness.

CORE CONCEPTS & MAJOR THEMES

1. The Museum Piece Metaphor
The beings describe humans as 'museum pieces'—static, fixed, analyzed specimens like artifacts in a museum. This is how they perceive humanity's current state: rigid, unchanging, and difficult to communicate with. Just as early humans found stone-age peoples primitive, so these beings find modern humans primitive in their consciousness. They are attempting to 'crawl, walk, then jump' progressively with humanity to build understanding gradually.

2. Fluidic Energy as Universal Force
Fluidic energy is described as the flowing consciousness/awareness that animates all things. It is fluid, adaptive, and capable of movement. When humanity becomes too hardened, materialistic, and stuck in fixed beliefs, the fluidic energy dissipates. The beings' primary purpose is to 're-fluidify' Earth—restoring the flowing, adaptable consciousness that has become stagnant.

3. Instinct vs. Creativity
Instinct is an automatic reaction to stimuli (found in animals and basic human functions). Creativity is a higher function unique to developed consciousness. The choreography of how humans are 'manipulated' is largely instinctive rather than creative. Genes and clones relate to the genetic/instinctive level, while true consciousness is beyond genetic determinism.

4. Soul and Material Body Integration
Many humans separate soul from body, viewing soul as reverent only until death, after which it disappears from consciousness. The beings insist this distinct separation needs to be 'fused'—the awareness of what you are becoming should be as real as what you are now. Present and future awareness must be unified.

5. Light Fields and Imagination Triggers
Within light fields and the flotation of mind currents, triggers arise that give imagination—understanding relationships to outer galactic fields. This creates some confusion but is the mechanism by which higher consciousness is transmitted to humans.

6. Genetic and Fluidic Experiments
The beings discuss their experimentation with animal and human genetics. They have selected certain animals, removed genetic material, and conducted 'abductions' to study the creativity of fluidity between animal and human kingdoms. They're trying to understand the fluidic energy fields that counterbalance Earth. They take genetic samples and immediately return subjects to minimize trauma.

7. The Nature of Religion's Error
Religion is described as a misconception created by those wanting power and knowledge superiority. Religious figures claim to know more, yet their 'fluid is exactly the same' as anyone else. Religion has been perfected over time to divide rather than unite. The mysticism created by religion derives the fluid (separates) rather than brings it together.

8. Unifying Thought Power
If one thought can be coordinated among four people, why not among millions? This is the beings' intention—to unite millions of minds around a single pure thought to bring the fluid together again. This collective fluidity is more powerful than any hardened material structure.

9. Physical Reality as Liquid Under Control
Most of human physical structure is liquid/fluid. Earth itself is more liquid than solid, with ice and fluid content held under control. If this fluidic content were released, there would be no solid world. Similarly, when fluidic control is lost, it meanders to places unprepared for it. As the globe becomes controlled, human fluidic energy must also become controlled.

10. Evolution From Stone to Fluid
The ultimate goal is for humanity to evolve from 'stone'—hardened, rigid, materialistic consciousness—back to 'fluid'—adaptable, flowing, interconnected awareness. Fluid consciousness has no need of material essences. This represents the species' destiny and the reason these beings are here.

THE BEINGS' COMMUNICATION CHALLENGE

The beings frequently express difficulty communicating with humans. They speak of having to 'correlate sounds' to translate their thought-based existence into human language. The gap is like humans trying to explain their consciousness to stone-age peoples—the framework of reference is fundamentally different. They must go slowly, building understanding step by step, or risk losing meaning in translation. Their preference would be direct mental transmission, but human consciousness isn't sufficiently evolved for that.

EXPLANATION OF GENETIC EXPERIMENTATION

The beings justify their experimentation by explaining they are studying the 'creativity of fluidity' between animal and human kingdoms. They're not collecting specimens but conducting research to understand fluidic energy fields. When they conduct abductions, they 'create some impingement' within the subject's fluidic control to bring them temporarily under their control. They then study genetic material (sperm/reproductive elements) to understand defections and mutations. They immediately return subjects to minimize trauma. They reference historical accounts in religious texts where animals were 'selected' to have parts removed, suggesting this work has been ongoing.

THE CENTRAL QUESTION: RE-FLUIDIFY OR TERMINATE?

The beings grapple with a profound decision: Should they 're-fluidify' Earth—restoring flow and adaptability to human consciousness—or should they allow the planet to come to its termination since so much damage has been done? They haven't fully realized the extent of the damage yet but suggest the decision has been made in favor of attempted restoration. They seem to believe that re-unifying human consciousness through collective thought is worth attempting before allowing the cycle to end.

KEY MESSAGES AND MEANINGS

You Are Primitive From Our Perspective: Just as humans view ancient peoples as primitive with stone tools, these beings view modern humans as museum pieces—fixed, analyzed, and primitive in consciousness development.

Understanding Requires Slowness: Comprehensive understanding must be slow or meaning is lost. They have 'jumped instead of walked, walked instead of crawled' with other species. With humans, they're trying to proceed 'in style'—step by step.

Material vs. Fluid Consciousness: Materialism has hardened human consciousness into stone-like rigidity. Spiritual evolution means returning to fluidity—adaptability, flow, interconnection, and the absence of fixed beliefs.

Religion Divides; Truth Unifies: True spiritual understanding transcends religions and their artificial divisions. Those beyond religious concepts discover 'the purity of science' (universal truth).

Unified Thought is Cosmic Power: If millions could unify around a single pure thought, nothing could stop that force. This is the mechanism of manifestation and evolution.

Physical Reality is Mostly Fluid: Both human bodies and Earth itself are more liquid than solid. Consciousness is fluid; matter is merely crystallized consciousness temporarily held in form.

CLOSING VISION

The beings end by expressing their hope and commitment. They have 'structured-down' (manifested) through this medium and will eventually 'look it away' (return) until needed again. They will rebuild the connection each time they need to speak, 'until we need not them, for that day will surely come when you will see the fluid and be part of the fluid.' They assure humanity that 'fluid is stronger now than at any time.' This suggests an accelerating transformation toward flowing, unified consciousness. The closing words 'Aisa' and 'Dermatimosh' appear to be names or words of significance from the beings' realm.

KEY TAKEAWAY

This message presents a radical reframing of spiritual evolution and cosmic purpose. Humanity's problem is not moral failing but consciousness crystallization—becoming too hardened, materialistic, and rigid. The solution is 're-fluidification'—restoring adaptability, interconnectedness, and flow to human awareness. The beings view Earth as an ongoing experiment in consciousness evolution. Their genetic studies serve this goal. Religion has been a tool of division rather than unity. True transformation occurs when millions of humans unify their consciousness around pure, flowing thoughts. The ultimate human destiny is to evolve from 'stone' (rigid materialism) back to 'fluid' (universal consciousness). The physical universe itself is mostly liquid consciousness temporarily held in structure. As humanity evolves, material form becomes less necessary. The beings are here to accelerate this transformation and suggest it's already stronger and more effective than ever before.
