Once Upon a Time

A Channeled Message on Cosmic Story and Universal Creation (March 12, 2000)

OVERVIEW

This 52-minute message uses storytelling to convey cosmic history and universal principles. The beings teach through narrative about creation, consciousness evolution, and cosmic purpose.

CORE CONCEPTS

Story as Teaching Tool: Narrative format allows deeper understanding than direct exposition.

Cosmic History: Story conveys actual history of consciousness and universe creation.

Archetypal Themes: Universal patterns repeat across stories—archetypal themes point to truth.

Characters as Principles: Story characters represent consciousness principles—universal forces.

Metaphor and Literal: Story works both metaphorically and literally—multiple layers of meaning.

Beginning Question: 'Once upon a time' frames eternal question—how did existence begin.

Divine Emergence: Story reveals consciousness/divinity emerging from itself progressively.

Creative Unfolding: Universal creation continues—not finished but eternally unfolding.

Human Place: Story reveals human place in cosmic design—not accident but purposeful.

Ending as Beginning: Story ending points back to beginning—circles, cycles, eternal recursion.

KEY TAKEAWAY

Cosmic story reveals actual history through narrative metaphor. Archetypal themes point to universal truths. Characters represent consciousness principles. Story works simultaneously metaphorically and literally. Divine consciousness emerges and unfolds eternally. Humanity has purposeful place in cosmic design. Creation is not finished—unfolding continues. Ending circles back to beginning—revealing eternal recursion underlying existence.

Recording Date: March 12, 2000 | Duration: ~52 minutes
Summary Created: August 30, 2026